

Listening Guide- Episode 4

Frederick Douglass- "The Power of the Future"

1. "My free life began on the 3rd of September, _____, on the morning of the fourth of that month."
2. "They do nothing towards enlightening the slave, while they do much towards enlightening the _____"
3. Mr. Gardner teaches _____ how to caulk.
4. This is not the last time we're going to see him compare slave owners to _____.
5. His master giving him the six cents was an actual confession that he had stolen the whole _____.
6. He would give him _____ a week at the end of the week instead of six and be responsible for everything else.
7. The concept of _____ is what makes you a man.
8. In the end, what ultimately happened is that he got a _____ himself and worked really well.
9. He kept contemplating his own future; he kept forecasting himself into the _____.
10. In the future he decided that September 3 would be his official _____ since he established early in the book he didn't know what his birthday was.
11. He's able to _____ and create a sailor's protection pass.
12. When he handed the train conductor his papers, he said I have this document with an _____ on it that protects me everywhere I go.
13. He's struck with the idea that he's _____ alone; he's left everything.
14. "You all know it, but it was a story made possible by the unswerving _____ of Anna Murray."
15. She had two beds. She sold one of them and bought the _____ and got him out.
16. She raised the _____ all those years when he was out doing the stuff that made him famous.

17. In this poem by Sir. Walter Scott (it was written in 1810), there's this historical character named Scott Lord James of _____.
18. Names are extremely important; _____ are your identity, a statement of your essence in the world.
19. He expected to go to the _____ and find the _____ full of these John C. Calhoun stereotypes.
20. Your win is NOT my loss, and it's a shift of _____ that really slaps him in the face.
21. The South was ruled by a _____, and that minority was the handful of very wealthy people who controlled the plantations.
22. The "harder I work the more I get" wasn't a concept in the _____, but it clearly was evidenced in the labor and the financial benefit of the people of the _____
23. What the South did not have was a _____; what the North did have was a middle class.
24. Let me say, starting a newspaper he brings together his capitalism and _____
25. Douglass, although fought obviously and most notably for abolition, also was a champion of _____.

how to love lit
podcast